

At Wellkin Energy, we are committed to protecting the environment and conducting our operations responsibly across all stages of the oil and gas lifecycle. We recognize that environmental stewardship is essential to the long-term success of our business and to the well-being of the communities where we operate.

Our Environmental Commitments:

- Compliance: We comply with all applicable environmental laws, regulations, and industry standards in every region where we operate.
- Pollution Prevention: We aim to minimize emissions, discharges, and waste generation through efficient operations, responsible resource use, and the implementation of best practices.
- Sustainable Operations: We promote energy efficiency, conservation of natural resources, and responsible management of chemicals and materials.
- Emergency Preparedness: We maintain strict protocols to prevent, control, and respond promptly to any environmental incidents.
- Continuous Improvement: We seek to continuously improve our environmental performance by investing in technology, training employees, and incorporating environmental considerations into our planning and decision-making.

Every employee, contractor, and partner of Wellkin Energy shares the responsibility to safeguard the environment and ensure the sustainability of the energy sector for future generations.
